

Yachtsmen worldwide rely on Mariners General Insurance to provide them with the proper coverage depending on the individual and their unique boating requirements. Family owned and operated since 1959, you'll find the staff knowledgeable, professional and able to deliver personal service every step of the way.

Pacific Northwest
(800) 823-2798

Northern California
(800) 853-6504

Los Angeles/
Orange Counties
(800) 992-4443

San Diego
(800) 639-0002

Florida
(800) 914-9928

Mariners General Insurance provides you with the best quotes from several A-Rated companies. This presents practical options and real choices for boaters to match their specific needs. And, we have Direct Appointments with all of the major "A" rated and admitted insurers, as well as direct brokering agreements with offshore insurers to make sure you receive the right insurance for your boat.

Now with five local offices serving your marine insurance needs, coast-to-coast and worldwide

Discover us on the internet
www.marinersinsurance.com

Serving boaters since 1959

Founded in 1959, Mariners General Insurance maintains a commitment to provide the right insurance for your yacht or business. Today, Mariners General Insurance is directly appointed with more American yacht insurers than any other marine specialist and has grown to five locations.

Boaters working with boaters

The Mariners General staff has extensive offshore experience that allows us to identify and anticipate the potential exposures boaters and the marine business community may face. Whether motoring a 27-footer through the Sacramento Delta or cruising a 100' mega yacht through the Mediterranean, you can depend on Mariners General Insurance to provide the coverage and service necessary to properly protect your assets.

All we write is marine insurance

At Mariners General, marine insurance is our ONLY business. Your marine related interests are our only focus. Many large insurance brokerages write marine insurance as an accommodation to an insured for writing a much larger commercial account. This can potentially compromise the insured's needs due to limited insurance markets with which to place coverage or staff unfamiliar with exposures particular to marine risks.

What is an Ancillary Coverage?

Contemporary yachts and their systems are becoming increasingly complicated as we take the comforts of home to sea. The additional costs to equip a modern boat with all the navigation, communication, and computer equipment can represent many tens of thousands of dollars, not to mention the necessary dinghies, dive gear, and, in many cases, personal watercraft, submersibles, and motorbikes. These "toys" also represent a liability exposure to the boatowner should a guest become injured while operating them.

Also critical is that the crew liability exposures are identified and covered. Most policies exclude an owner's liability to a paid crew person unless specifically endorsed on the policy. Various federal acts provide an avenue of compensation for paid crew persons should they suffer injury or illness while in the employ of the vessel as captain or crew.

These are but a few situations that must be identified by your insurance agent. The agent then must have the insurance markets with whom to place coverage competitively.

Local offices serving boat owners worldwide

Through our domestic and offshore insurers, our insured's have access to claims and underwriting offices worldwide. At Mariners General Insurance, we have boats insured in every ocean of the world. No matter where you are on your boat, a Mariners General Insurance representative can be reached by phone, fax, or e-mail, seven days a week.

Just some of the packages offered by Mariners General Insurance:

- Agreed-Value Yacht Insurance
- Marine Facilities – piers, wharves, marinas
- Mega Yacht Programs
- Ship Repairers & Marine Artisans
- Yacht Brokers Liability Packages
- Ocean & Inter-Modal Cargo
- Charter Vessels
- Builder's Risk/Course of Construction
- Offshore Cruising & Racing Worldwide